TALOUDA PROJECT

TALOUDA
Hand Made Morrocan Pasta

TALOUDA PROJECT

is a Moroccan brand of traditional pasta, homemade from organic and fair trade products. Its factories, located in Mohammédia, receive and process products grown by a group of small permaculture farmers from the surrounding regions.

It is a new brand that seeks to position itself as such.

And which claims the green label of quality, health and flavors.

It wants to respond to an increasingly strong demand from consumers who now want to eat in a healthy way while preserving nature.

They also want their consumption to actively contribute to depollution and the preservation of nature.

TALOUDA's core target is a category of women in their thirties, well-to-do who long for meals made by their mothers or grandmothers when they were little.

They want their families to benefit from the flavors of yesteryear and the culinary knowledge of the secular Moroccan terroir.

TALOUDA should be an invitation to revisit cereal-based dishes which, unfortunately, are deserting the Moroccan table.

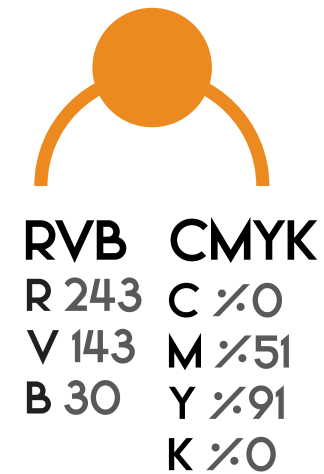

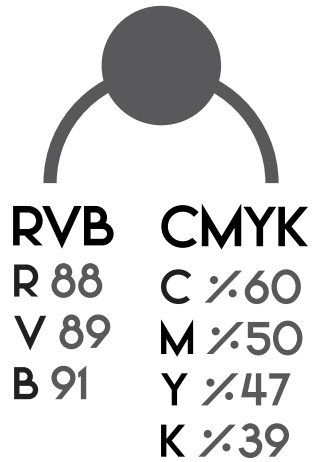

Dishes that had built the culinary identity of Moroccans.

MOROCCO AÉROSPATIAL PROJECT

MOROCCO AÉROSPATIAL

"Morocco Aérospatial" is a government service set up to promote national high technology and ensure a place alongside developed nations. This service, which is located at the Ministry of Industry, Commerce, of Investment and the Digital Economy, aims to provide the country with high-tech poles capable of accelerating development in high-tech industry such as:

- Aeronautics
- The robotics
- Artificial intelligence
- Renewable energy
- Etc.

The Moroccan State offers national and international promoters, through a one-stop shop, administrative and tax facilities.

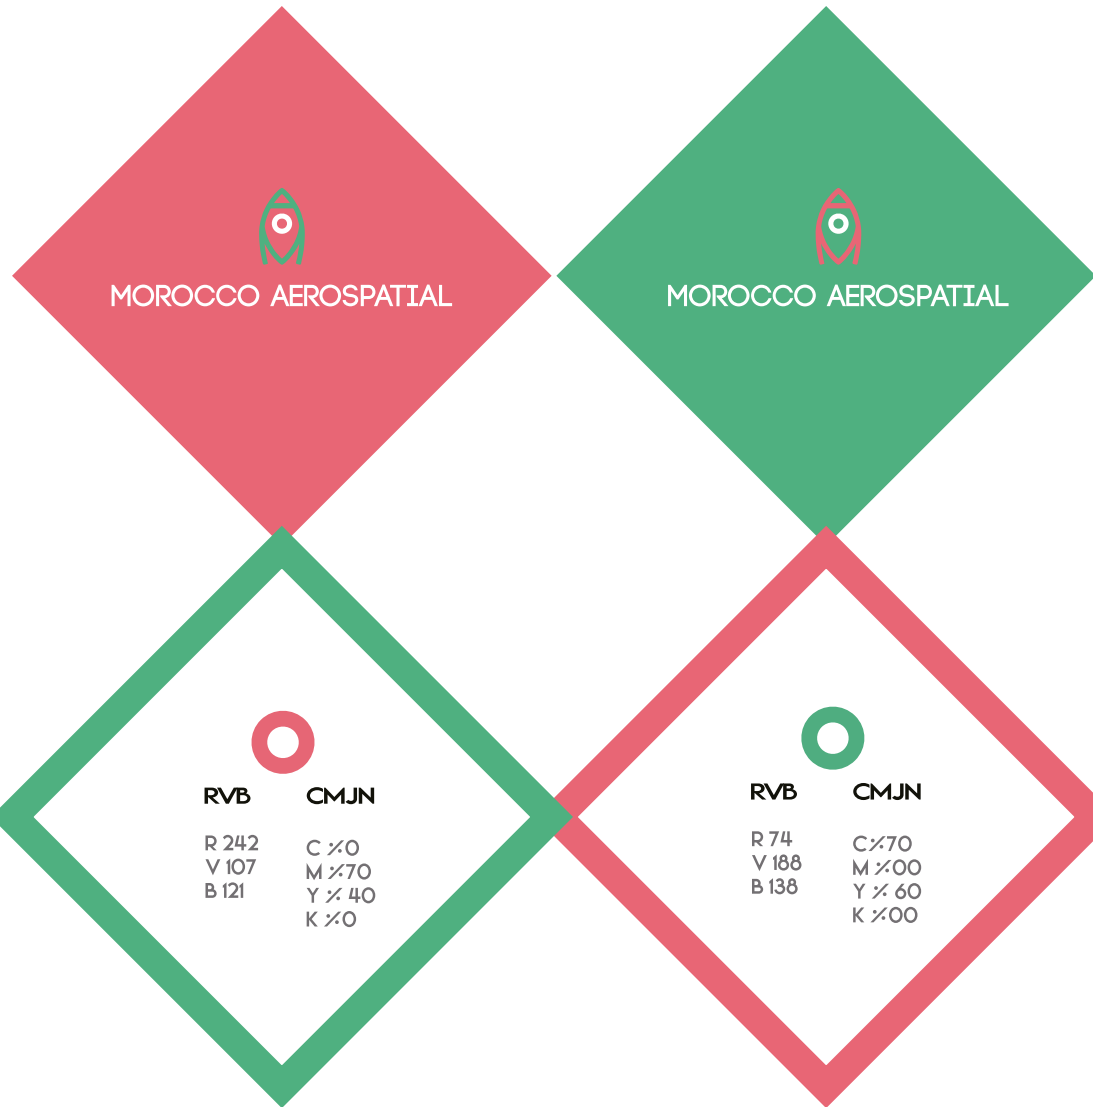

It also offers land and premises in dedicated complexes on the outskirts of major cities. Support, monitoring and auditing are provided by universities and high-tech schools as well as government design offices.
